QUITO, ECUADOR

Trek through volcanic ash deposits to the summit of Cotopaxi, which is one of the highest active volcanoes in the world, while giving back through local service projects. Cotopaxi is one of several volcanoes that make up the Pacific Ring of Fire. Quito is a breathtaking city that ranges from Andean grasslands to the crater at the peak of the volcano over 19,000 feet above sea level. Get your heart racing with a mountain bike excursion along andesite and basalt porphyry trails and zip line along hardened lava flows that hardened to created this stratovolcano.

Adventure Life's Cotopaxi group service project helps to support the Cotopaxi National Park and the Condor Biosphere, a 5.4 million acre conservation project, to ensure that future generations can enjoy this majestic landscape. www.adventure-life.com
